NEWS AROUND TOWN

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

I liked this one:
A substitute teacher in a large city school prepared the 10:30 lunch for the kindergarten class. Then she pulled up a chair to join them. "Now let's eat," she said. No one touched his food. Again she said, "Come on, children, let's start to eat." There was silence. Finally a little black-haired child said: "Hell, we ain't prayed yet."

Don't miss the "Hometown Jubilee tonight at the A. H. S. Auditorium. This will be the final performance.

Had a letter from one of my old friends r. frankly, I did not know where she was now living ... and that would be Mrs. Roy M. Flippo, nee Charlsie Upton. Mr. and Mrs. Flippo now own and operate the Laurel Brigade Inn at Leesburg. I haven't seen Charlsie since she moved away from Appomattox, but recall being in school with her here. Hope to get to Leesburg some time and visit her.

Mrs. Cecil Harvey and Miss Merle Reynolds entertained at a miscellaneous shower Saturday evening, Jan. 12, in the home of Miss Reynolds, honoring Miss Mazie Harvey, bride-elect. About 35 guests were present and the honoree received many nice and useful gifts.

Remember the deep snow we had in 1940? I still have a picture of George Landgran and me throwing snowballs at each other during that memorable winter spell. Father Darkleaf and I managed to get to work and get out the paper, but had to spend two nights across the street at Hotel Appomattox because we couldn't get home. And as we go to press today, it looks all set for another deep snow. We will see!

The Farmers National Bank and the Bank of Appomattox will be closed Saturday, January 19. It is Robert E. Lee's birthday, and a state holiday.

Joel McCreas and Mark Stevens are set to costar in "A Tale of Consequences," which Robert Bassler will produce and Francis Lyons will direct. It's the story of a couple of authors who decided to become ranchers and moved to Montana, but the creative urge still nagged them and so they wrote the story. It gives Joel a rollicking part full of Irish blarney.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR HOG SALES

Hogs of six different breeds will be marketed at the series of three winter hog sales sponsored by the Virginia Purebred Swine Breeders' Association.

R. M. Godsey, associate animal husbandman at VPI, and secretary of the Association, says the sales are planned for: Winchester, February 1, with 27 bred sows and 19 boars consigned; Suffolk, February 6, with 43 bred sows and 43 boars consigned; and Tappahannock, February 12, with 38 bred sows and 31 boars consigned.

Berkshires, Durocs, Hampshires, Poland Chinas, Spotted Poland Chinas, and Yorkshires will be sold. Gilts of all breeds are bred to farrow in February and March. Godsey says it is these early farrowing pigs that will be profitable when sold next August and September. With live grading of hogs becoming more popular with buyers and sellers throughout the state, now is the time to buy the outstanding meat-type boars and gilts, Godsey says.

TOO MANY DEER BEING LEFT IN WOODS

According to Chester F. Phelps, Chief of the Game Division of the Game and Inland Fisheries Commission, the report just off the press from the Wisconsin Department of Conservation entitled — "White-tailed Deer in Wisconsin," gives some very revealing data. Under a section concerning illegal killing and crippling losses during the hunting season, the report states that part of the losses in a deer herd hunted under the buck law is a direct result of killing and crippling deer that are not legal during such a season.

Johnny Mock, sports columnist for the Pittsburgh Press, states that in Pennsylvania one year, sixty-eight wounded or dead legal and illegal bucks, does and fawns were left in the woods.
